

PMC Machinery Corporation (Polymac) hosts New Jersey Lieutenant Governor Kim Guadagno

PMC Machinery Corporation located in Lakewood, New Jersey, hosted Lt. Governor Kim Guadagno on October 4, 2011. The purpose of her visit was to inform companies like PMC Machinery Corporation that the State of New Jersey Governors office actively supports and promotes manufacturing in the State of New Jersey.

The Lt. Governor and members of her staff met with PMC Machinery Group President, Mike Kolibas and Vice President of Sales/Marketing Bill Hrynkiewicz. She was accompanied by several members of the governor's office representing the business action and labor departments. The Lt. Governor met privately with Mr. Kolibas and his staff to review various state programs available to the company. Afterwards she toured the newly renovated PMC manufacturing facility. PMC is looking forward to working with the Governor's staff to utilize the resources and programs available for New Jersey Corporations.

PMC Machinery Corporation manufactures and sells machines, hoses, guns and transfer pumps to the polyurethane spray foam market. Polymac is a subsidiary of PMC Global Inc., Sun Valley, California and can be found at www.polymac-usa.com.

Impact Polyurethane Chemicals LLC is a proud distributor of Polymac (PMC) Classic machines and accessories for the polyurethane industry. IMPACT became one of their flagship distributors in January of 2008 providing equipment and customer support throughout the industry. From the inception of their company we felt their vision represented the future of the polyurethane industry.

PMC exudes everything important to our industry today; innovative equipment, 5 Star customer service programs, and a level of support that most companies fall short to provide. We are excited about the future of such a fine organization and our relationship with the fine men and women affiliated with their company.
